AB 199: Prevailing Wage Bill Would Increase Residential Construction Costs

As many of you may have heard, there is a bill known as "AB 199" being proposed by the State of California that would require all new residential construction to pay prevailing wage.

The bill is being pushed by the labor unions to ultimately mandate the use of union labor on all new residential construction. If approved this bill could increase residential construction costs by up to 46%, dramatically affecting affordability and jobs, while shutting down new residential construction and slashing the value of land.

Below is a summary by Mike Taylor from Pardee Homes and a link that will allow you to contact your legislature and encourage a "NO" vote on AB 199.

Frequently Asked Questions \(FAQ\)

Our homebuilding industry is under siege. We need every one of you to help on an extremely critical issue that has far reaching ramifications for all of our livelihoods. I am not an alarmist by nature, and I certainly do not mean to become one now, but the following description is a very real threat to what we do. At the end of this e-mail there is a link that I am asking each and every one of you to take a couple of minutes immediately and please fill out the response form.

Assembly Bill 199 is a new proposal in the State of California legislature that is sponsored by the State Building Trades Council. This newly proposed bill poses a GRAVE THREAT to the entire construction industry. THIS BILL WOULD MANDATE THE PAYMENT OF PREVAILING WAGES FOR ALL PRIVATE RESIDENTIAL PROJECTS IN CALIFORNIA.

Currently, residential construction on private property has specifically been excluded from prevailing wage mandates. This exclusion is what we as homebuilders have worked under for decades. Such a requirement would effectively end the development of new communities in California, exacerbate the already serious housing shortage and destroy construction as we know it.

Equally troubling is that this effort is being pushed by the unions in an effort to ultimately mandate the use of union-only labor for all residential construction in California.

Time is of the essence as the AB199 bill is only weeks away from being heard by the State Assembly. We must educate the legislature to defeat this industry killing proposal and we need your help today.

California's leading builders and developers have launched a major effort to stop AB 199 through an aggressive lobbying, media and strategic political program. Already, the 15 largest homebuilders in California, including the TRI Pointe Group, have contributed substantial resources to this critical fight.
